Editorial Review

From School Library Journal

Grade 3-7—Julian Calendar, 11, is a supersmart transfer student trying desperately to fit in at his new middle school. Just when he starts to believe that he'll never find his place, he discovers two other brilliant minds and together they form the Secret Science Alliance. These three braniacs create their own book of blueprints for such cunning creations as the stinkometer, sticky and dangerous gluebombs, and the flying Kablovsky Copter. However, their blueprints are stolen by evil Dr. Stringer, who has plans for them. Davis's first long-form comic is packed full of detail down to every minute tool in the Alliance's workshop, and the flying words and panels move the story at a quick pace. Davis's creativity is evident from the myriad gadgets and schemes of the story. Children will see, through these inventions and the triumph of the protagonists, that science can be cool.—Carrie Rogers-Whitehead, Kearns Library, UT END

About the Author

Eleanor Davis received a Theodore Seuss Geisel Honor award for her first children's book, Stinky, published by Francoise Mouly's Toon Books in 2008. Her critically acclaimed stories for older readers have appeared in the anthologies The Best American Comics 2008, for which she did the cover, and Mome. Eleanor's mini-comics first garnered attention for their innovative handmade die-cuts and coloring. She was chosen as one of Print magazine's 2009 New Visual Artists. She lives and works with her boyfriend, Drew Weing, in Athens, Georgia. This is her first full-length graphic novel.
