Editorial Review

Review

"...if the study of business is to work its way out of an often unproductively sycophantic attitude, this book will be a welcome resource" (Adrian Henriques, CSR wire)

About the Author

Pauline Fatien Diochon first joined Menlo College as a visiting faculty member in 2011 and then as an Associate Professor of Management in 2012. Dr. Fatien Diochon's research concentrates on leadership development, with a focus on executive coaching, power, and critical management education. She founded an executive coaching program in University of Lyon Management School, France, and has been publishing book chapters on coaching and articles in such journals as Gérer et Comprendre, Management et Avenir, Gestion 2000 and Humanisme et Entreprise. She recently co-authored a book on coaching: Le coaching dans les organisations. She is an active member of the Academy of Management, recently being the board of the Critical Management Studies Division; she is also member and chair of the research committee of the Graduate School Alliance of Executive Coaching.

Emmanuel Raufflet (PhD McGill) teaches management, corporate social responsibility and sustainable development at HEC Montreal. He has written articles and books on corporate social responsibility and sustainable development. He serves as chair at the NACRA (North American Case Research Association) of the Business and Society/Business Ethics Track. He has published numerous books and articles.

Albert J. Mills is Director of the PhD (Management) program and Professor of Management in the Sobey School of Business, Saint Mary's University, Canada. He is the author and editor of 35 books and special issues. His forthcoming books include Gender and Aviation International Perspectives (London: Ashgate); The Oxford Handbook of Diversity in Organizations (Oxford, Oxford University Press); The Routledge Companion to Management and Organizational History (London: Routledge); and The Routledge Companion to Critical Management Studies (London: Routledge). He is currently working on two SSHRC (Social Sciences & Humanities Research Council of Canada) funded projects to study (i) intersectionality over time and (ii) the development and dispersement of management theory. Albert is a former co-divisional chair of the Critical Management Studies of the Academy of Management and currently serves on the International CMS Executive.
